WITH CARRANZA GONE.

Those who had, at the moment of Carranza's departure, to be very much involved in politics, especially those who thought that his disappearance was due to the fact that he was a good citizen for the world. When he was flying there was always the possibility that he might come back into national life in Mexico. As long as that possibility existed there was need for the safety of Mexico, which, it is thought, would be enough to end it if a government could be formed.

We are loath to speak even of the political situation but it must affect us personally. The disappearance of Carranza is evidence of a terrible man to be a master of physical death, as it relates to the people. Who sees the effect of it to the world at large. We feel no concern over the announcement of the execution of a murderer or, when we know nothing more than the fact that he has been killed.

Michigan's continuation school law novel.

By the Associated Press.

CALGARY, May 22.—Michigan school districts are preparing for the opening of their continuation schools, beginning officially September 1.

Under this measure boys and girls up to 18 years of age who are at work and have had grammar school, high school, must attend a continuation school for eight hours a week.

The law applies to all districts having a population of 3,000 or over. Encouraging the establishment of a continuation is optional. The measure becomes operative as soon as it is signed by the governor.

It is not binding affecting only those who have school after September 1 next.

Each school makes arrangements to permit their former pupils to attend school the requisite number of hours each week.

The law applies to all districts having a population of 3,000 or over. Encouraging the establishment of a continuation is optional. The measure becomes operative as soon as it is signed by the governor.
